Dear Mr. Weisberg:

When I began transcribing your ms I didn't know how to use the computer. Now that I've learned the computer, I'm typing as fast as I can with enthusiasm for the continuation of your wonderful and profound work.

Forgive the "typos"; (but the strength of your words comes through and the typos will be corrected on my next draft).

This is all that I've done so far but by the end of the day I should be much farther along. Meanwhile, as you asked to look at it now, I'm sending this first rough draft.

I think the timing on this book will be powerful.

....Now back to the computer.

With my love and respect and best wishes that all will be well,

Raphaela
